6. Working Ethic : She tries to do as much as she can in any project she is involved in for as long as she is given permission to do so. She does not always limit her contribution to what is only needed; if she believes that additional activities are worth doing, then she asks permission to do them. She also does not mind sacrificing personal time for work, particularly when she is really excited about a certain task/project, or she feels that extending more time is necessary. She gets excited when given an unfamiliar task because she knows that she will certainly be gaining from it. Also, it makes her feel there is trust in what she can do
7. Personal Motto : No matter how difficult a situation is, one should not give up because it always gets resolved anyway. This is why she does not easily lose hope, even when some challenges take while to resolve.
