

BIODATA

Dr Nantana Taptamat

Multimodal Career Development Learning Designer
Student Enrichment and Employability Development
(SEED)
The University of Queensland
Australia

Dr Nantana Taptamat is a senior learning designer at The University of Queensland (UQ), Australia and the winner of the 2020/2021 SEAMEO-Australia Education Link Award. Nantana completed a PhD in Education from The University of Queensland (UQ) under an Endeavour Postgraduate Scholarship, with full financial support from the Australian Government. During her PhD, Nantana was awarded the highly esteemed Carolyn D Baker Memorial Scholarship and several competitive awards to further develop her international research profile. She has 15 years of classroom teaching experience in Thailand and at UQ. Nantana has been involved in research projects related to digital education, inquiry learning and community of practices and won several Teaching Excellence Awards, including most recently the 2021 HASS Tutor Award. Evidence of her skills and experience in teaching, research, engagement, instructional design and technologies are available at <https://www.taptamat.com> and <https://nantanalearn.com/>.