

10th SEAMEO-University of Tsukuba Symposium

BIOGRAPHY

Dr Indrawati

Dr Indrawati is the Director of SEAMEO QITEP in Science. She earned her doctoral degree from the Indonesia University of Education in Management of Education in 2013. At the national level, she was a member of consultant team in the development of Vocational High School Module in Analytical Chemistry and Industrial Chemistry, a member of the developer team of Science-Technology-Society (a collaborative program with British Petroleum, British Council, and SEAMEO RECSAM in Science across Asia-Pacific/Science across the World Program), and became the coordinator of continuous development programme for national science teachers and coordinator of science learning innovation development on IBL, STEM, CT. Her research area focuses on Science in elementary school, STEM Learning and its integration into National Curriculum, Managerial skills for the school principal and superintendent, Pedagogical in the Science Learning, and Student Active Learning Implementation in Elementary School.